²⁵Took his seat July 2, 1868; term to expire March 3, 1869.

²⁶Took his seat July 1, 1868.

²⁷Although Georgia was not formally readmitted to representation until July 15, 1870 (in the succeeding Congress), the Representatives elected to this Congress qualified as indicated.

²⁸On December 7, 1868, the credentials of Joshua Hill, elected by the legislature to fill vacancy in the term beginning March 4, 1867, were presented and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary; on January 11, 1869, the credentials of Homer V. M. Miller, elected in the same manner, for the term beginning March 4, 1865, were presented and were similarly referred; on January 25, 1869, the committee reported that the State of Georgia had not complied with the conditions of an act providing for her admission to representation and that Mr. Hill "ought not now to be admitted"; February 17, 1869, the committee reported against admitting Mr. Miller to his seat, and the case remained undisposed of.

²⁹John A. Wimpy and John H. Cristy both claimed election from the sixth district, but neither was seated.

³⁰Took his seat July 25, 1868.

³¹Resigned February 7, 1868.
³²Elected to fill vacancy caused by resignation of James Guthrie, and took his seat February 28, 1868.

³³On July 3, 1867, it was proposed to seat all the Members-elect from Kentucky, but protests against the manner of holding the election and charges of disloyal acts by certain individual members of the delegation were presented and a resolution was adopted directing an investigation and referring to the Committee on Elections the credentials of Messrs. Lawrence S. Trimble, John Y. Brown, J. Proctor Knott, Asa P. Grover, Thomas L. Jones, James B. Beck, and John D. Young, who were not permitted to qualify pending this investigation; Samuel E. Smith contested the election of John Y. Brown, but the House, on February 15, 1868, decided that neither was entitled to the seat, which remained vacant throughout the Congress.

³⁴Election unsuccessfully contested by G. G. Symes; took his seat January 10, 1868.

³⁵Died May 8, 1867, never having qualified; the election of Mr. Hise was subsequently unsuccessfully contested by George D. Blakey.

³⁶Elected to fill vacancy caused by death of Elijah Hise, and took his seat December 5, 1867; George D. Blakey, claiming to have been elected from this district instead of Mr. Hise, filed a protest against the seating of Mr. Golladay, but this protest was not allowed.

³⁷Charges of disloyalty were unsustainable, and took his seat December 3, 1867.

³⁸Charges of disloyalty were unsustainable, and took his seat December 4, 1867.

³⁹Took his seat July 8, 1867.

⁴⁰Successfully contested the election of John D. Young, and took his seat June 22, 1868.

⁴¹Readmitted to representation July 9, 1868.

⁴⁴Took his seat July 18, 1868.

⁴⁵Took his seat July 18, 1868; died August 26, 1868; Caleb S. Hunt and J. Willis Menard claimed to have been elected to fill the vacancy, and Simon Jones claimed he was elected, instead of Mann, in the first instance. The House decided against all claimants, and the seat remained vacant for the remainder of the session.

⁴⁶Resigned July 10, 1868.

⁴⁷Appointed to fill vacancy caused by resignation of Reverdy Johnson, and took his seat July 14, 1868.

⁴⁸Elected for term beginning March 4, 1867, and took his seat March 9, 1868. The credentials of Senator-elect Philip F. Thomas were presented March 18, 1867, but he was not permitted to qualify; on February 19, 1868, the Senate adopted a resolution that he was not entitled to qualify as he had "voluntarily given aid, countenance, and encouragement to persons engaged in armed hostility to the United States."

Hamilton, claiming to be an at large Member-elect, were presented; claimant held that, inasmuch as Tennessee had voluntarily emancipated and enfranchised her slaves, she had added to her representative population a sufficient number to give her nine, instead of eight, Representatives, and he had been elected as such ninth Member. It was the first of many similar claims made by other readmitted States; the majority report was adverse to the claimant and, although the House took no formal action, he was not seated.
